Summer Reading + Summer Fun = Summer Learning for Everyone!

- Reading and talking about books starting at birth is one of the best ways to help little ones get ready to read. Babies and older pre-readers can participate in our new Early Literacy Program for ages 0-4. Ask about our year-round programs for ages 0-6: 1000 Books Before Kindergarten and the Early Learning Activity Challenge.

- For school-age students, research shows that summer reading and library use help kids maintain and improve reading skills, and avoid “summer learning loss” through which they can fall further behind each year.

- Allowing kids to choose books that interest them – reading for fun – is key to frequent and successful reading practice. The library enables this by providing free access to a wide variety of books.

- Library visits give parents and grandparents opportunities to “model” interest in reading, to talk about books and participate in activities together. We have summer reading programs for adults as well as children and teens!

- Free classes, events and storytimes at the library enrich the life experiences of kids from all socioeconomic levels and help build background knowledge and vocabulary – two more factors in reading success.

Early Literacy for Ages 0-4 (New!)

Early literacy engages entire families and lays the groundwork for lifelong readers. Our program integrates the five practices of reading, singing, talking, writing, and playing through fun, interactive activities and helps develop language and literacy skills.

Summer Reading Program for Kids through Grade 5

Our kids program encourages children to read to maintain their reading skills over the summer and to visit the library often! Programs and activities help develop positive attitudes about reading. Track the days spent reading to earn fun prizes, all summer long!

Summer Reading Program for Tweens & Teens, Grades 6 & up

Teens read in a variety of ways and we have them covered! This includes a wide variety of books, magazines, audio books, graphic novels, and digital offerings! Track the days spent reading to earn cool prizes, all summer long!

Singing:
Sing what you are doing as you are doing it. Changing a diaper? Sing it to your child! Songs are a natural way to learn language.

Reading:
Keep books near your child’s toys to help show that reading is a fun activity.

Writing:
Write letters and shapes on paper and have your child trace them with a highlighter. This helps to develop hand muscles and supports print awareness.

Playing:
Play “I Spy” with your child. Use colors, shapes, or even letter sounds as your clues.

The library is like an old friend. Sometimes you don’t see much of each other, but when you do, it’s so easy to pick right up where you left off. I am a very firm believer that libraries help build and maintain communities with their myriad of opportunities to read, learn, socialize and provide much needed services.

I got my first library card when I started bringing my daughter (my granddaughter’s mom) to the library when she was very young. We went religiously and by the time she started kindergarten she was reading at a 3rd grade level.

Coming to storytime in your pajamas and bringing your favorite stuffed animal is always a hit with my granddaughter. But, really, we enjoy all of the special events, including the alpacas when they come to visit!

My granddaughter and I have bonded over many books. We read Meet The Quokkas about 50 times! It was fun learning all about these adorable animals and where they live. We’ve talked about going to Australia to see them.
